"POLITICS" AT LADIES' NIGHT

Meeting of North Essex Congregational Club Devoted to Ladies' Participation in Coming Election. Supper Precedes Discussion.

Woman's viewpoint and the part she is to play in voting forms the subject of the addresses given at the Ladies' Night of the North Essex Congregational Club held at the Free church on Monday evening.

About seventy-five persons gathered in the vestry where an excellent supper was served at seven o'clock by Mrs. Harry A. Ramsdell, Mrs. David Lindsay, Mrs. William Mitchell, George Carter, Lewis Paine, assisted by Mrs. Lewis Paine, Miss Minerva Ramsdell and Miss Virginia Ramsdell as waitresses. The menu included meat pie, mashed potato, tomato and cucumber salad, relishes, rolls, coffee and pie.

During the supper, Dr. William Shaw, the ardent prohibition worker, seized the opportunity to make a plea that all church members, particularly the women, make a stand against a referendum which would permit the sale of light wines or beer and urged every person present to pledge his vote against any such movement and to ask five other persons to pledge their votes.

Judge Frederic N. Chandler, president of the club took the chair at the Plans which are now well under way for the "Bazaar of All Nations" to be held in the Town hall on the afternoon and evening of November 10th, under the auspices of the local Post of the American Legion promise a unique and interesting affair. Every church and organization in Andover has been asked to help make the undertaking a big success and many of them have already pledged their hearty support.

The various booths will represent different nations, their attendants wearing appropriate costumes and selling the characteristic goods of the country represented.

Something new in mystery tables will be arranged by those who have charge of the Chinese booth. Chinamen mingling with the patrons of the bazaar will sell the familiar checks which can be exchanged at their table for the surprise packages which probably will not contain the usual clean collars and shirts. Various other novel features are being planned.

The American Legion will have charge of a booth for the sale of ice cream and tonics, also a table where the "History of the 26th Division" will be sold.

ARLINGTON

"Paddy, the Next Best Thing," is the title of the comedy which comes to the Arlington Theatre for a limited engagement beginning Monday, October 18th. The first question we are inclined to ask is what does the title mean, and we are informed that "the next best thing" means a girl, it being a common expression in Ireland when a female child is born. The story deals with a bit of a colleen, a girl who has never given a thought to her sex and has done her utmost to compensate her father for his disappointment by being the sort of a pal to him her brother might have been.

Paddy is one of the most wholesome and intriguing young persons the present season has introduced, and as Eileen Huban interprets her, you fall a victim to her charms as readily as does the young Englishman who is the seemingly necessary complement to all Irish heroines.

You will be interested in the settings of "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," particularly the London dispensary and the interior of the English railway compartment of the train on which "Paddy" flees from London back to her Irish home. In this scene of a moving train the producer has achieved an actual novelty.

"Paddy, the Next Best Thing" may not appeal to the blasé theatregoer but if you like to go to the theatre to laugh spontaneously, if you enjoy looking benignly on at a youthful romance, and if you relish the spectacle of the taming of a high-spirited young man, you will like Paddy.

PLYMOUTH

After one solid year's run in New York "Scandal" is at last scheduled for the Plymouth Theatre in Boston, beginning Monday, October 18th, with the usual matinees on Thursday and Saturday. In "Scandal," Cosmo Hamilton's drama, he pictures a girl's bluff called by a man.

A young girl has pretended that she was the wife of a man much her senior. She named him as her host on an audacious visit to the studio of an artist when she was discovered there by her family. As he in every respect a desirable husband, the two are welcomed home the same night. She must take the consequences of her lie. The pseudo husband demands that the girl marry him under the conditions in which they are placed, and treat him as her real husband. The play grows more intense at every effort to tame this modern shrew. The spectators observe the retirement of her family from the bedroom, the vanishing of the maid and the forcible expulsion of her former companion and hear the refusal of her reputed husband to yield in his demands. Nevertheless he leaves the room with the observation that nothing in the world could persuade him to come near her. No more are the nerves of the spectators thus assailed. In the last act the deferred marriage is in sight.

In this superb Morris Rose production of "Scandal," Charles Cherry and June Walker are co-stars. Others in the cast are Henry Mowbray, Carl Eckstrom, Harry Ashford, David Urquhart, Jessamine Newcombe, Ada Wingard, Nellie Beaumont, Judith James, Clemence deClaron and Minnie Sweetey.

WILBUR

Next week at the Wilbur Theatre, beginning Monday, October 18th, E. Ray Goetz will present Sam Bernard and Irene Bordon, as co-stars, in the International Musical Success, "As You Were," a fantastic revue with a novel plot worked out in a real story—something not done before in this sort of an entertainment. Of course, you know that this is the play that caused such a furor at the Central Theatre, New York, last year, when it arrived there from Paris via London, after being presented for a year in each of those two cities. And speaking of Paris will suggest the probability of something gay-tinted and sparkling such as only the French can devise.

The book of the American version was done by Glen MacDonough and Mr. Goetz, the producer, has contributed new music and lyrics in addition to the original score by Herman Dawes.

Once every ten years or so the theatre-loving public is treated to a distinct novelty, and unquestionably "As You Were" will prove to be the most-talented and enjoyable musical revue seen hereabouts for a long, long time—just as it has been in all the other cities where it has been presented.

There are no two stars in the theatrical firmament who hold a more distinguished position than Sam Bernard and Irene Bordon. Mr. Bernard's wit and humor are world-renowned, and Miss Bordon's charm and rare abilities, not forgetting her remarkable beauty, have placed her on a pinnacle of admiration unequalled in the mimic world.

Essex Institute Collections

The Essex Institute at Salem, so well and favorably known as the historical society of Essex County, and whose museum of New England relics typifying the life and manners of this section from the first settlement is famous the country over, has just completed the fifty-sixth volume of its Historical Collections. A strong appeal is made to all interested in this historic county and in the preservation of its records, to become subscribers and help support the good work of the institution, which should have more members in every town and city of Essex County. The October number just issued contains the following articles: the first installment of "The History of the Boston and Maine Railroad," a valuable article, finely illustrated, by Francis B. C. Bradlee of Marblehead, who has one of the largest private collections relating to railroads and steamboats in the country; the "Burnap-Burnett Genealogy," by Henry W. Belknap of Salem, Secretary of the Essex Institute; a copy by the editor of the "Burbank-Pickering Memorandum Book," 1691-1772, kept by Timothy Burbank, probably of Haverhill, later by Capt. William Pickering of Salem, and his daughter, Hannah Collins, wife of Adoniram Collins of Marblehead, and includes vital records of Salem and Marblehead; "John Hazlett, portrait painter," of Salem, a sketch by Theodore Bolton of Washington, D. C.; "First known tax rate of Boxford, 1687," with names of persons, communicated by Sidney Perley, the well-known antiquarian; "Old Norfolk County Records," a continuation of those valuable abstracts of deeds, wills, executions, etc., from the original records, covering Haverhill, Amesbury, Salisbury, Hampton and Exeter; "A Petition to the General Court for the protection of Marblehead harbor in 1727," showing the need of repairs, building of fortifications, condition of the causeway, and importance of the fishing industry; concluding with an index for the year. These Collections may be consulted in any Essex County public library or may be purchased at the Essex Institute.

THE SECOND HARRISON

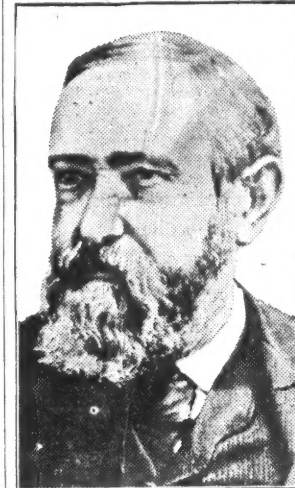

1833—August 20, Benjamin Harrison, born at North Bend, Ohio.
1852—Graduated from Miami college, Ohio.
1861-65—Colonel and brevetted brigadier general in the Civil war.
1881-7—In the United States senate.
1888—Elected president.
1889—March 4, inaugurated the twenty-third president, at the age of fifty-five.
1892—Defeated for re-election.
1901—March 13, death of Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis, aged sixty-seven.

BENJAMIN HARRISON'S administration proved to be only an intermission between the two acts of the Cleveland drama. History gives but a passing glance at the one president whose predecessor became his successor, who had to give up the presidential chair to the man he took it from.

Although Harrison had more brains than Cleveland, Cleveland had a larger nature, and that is what counts most in the leadership of men.

Notwithstanding Benjamin Harrison was the grandson of a president, in whose house he was born, his father was poor and the boy was brought up plainly.

Graduating from a small Ohio college, Harrison married at twenty the girl to whom he engaged himself at eighteen, and they went to housekeeping in a little three-room cottage in Indianapolis. He was not admitted to the bar until after his marriage, and the first money he ever made was as a court crier at $2.50 a day. Later on he helped out his lean practice with his salary as clerk of the supreme court of the state. Then came the Civil war, in which he served gallantly as a colonel and marched with Sherman to the sea. Afterward he rose to a high and prosperous rank in the practice of law.

The only political office Harrison ever held before his election to the presidency was a seat in the senate. Defeated for re-election to that body in the year before he was elected president, he left Washington with no thought that he would soon return as president-elect and he frankly described himself as "a dead duck."

The only candidate that the rank and file of the Republicans wanted to nominate in 1888 was Blaine. But he was not well, and he refused to make a contest for the nomination. At last he cabled from Scotland: "Take Harrison." And the convention indifferently took him.

The more notable events of the Harrison administration—the McKinley tariff act; the silver act, which more than doubled the purchase of that metal by the treasury; the Sherman law on the subject of trusts; the dependent pension act, and the first Pan-American congress—hardly belong in this little story, because none of them originated with the president himself. He did not rise to leadership, and congress took the reins. All the while he sat in the White House in cold aloofness.

With the cry of "God help the surplus!" the Republicans gave the country in Harrison's administration the first "billion-dollar congress," the appropriations for the two-year term rising to that unprecedented total. To the popular protest Speaker Reed retorted: "This is a billion-dollar country." But the country did not feel rich enough to pay the higher tariff rates of the McKinley act.

That law was passed only seven weeks before the congressional elections in 1890. Of course anyone who had anything to sell seized upon the excuse to mark up prices. The "shopping women" rose in their fury at the higher cost of living, and the voters overwhelmed the Republican majority in the house.

That was the forerunner of a still greater political overturn in the presidential election in 1892, when Harrison went down under a sweeping victory for Cleveland.

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

CLEVELAND CAME BACK

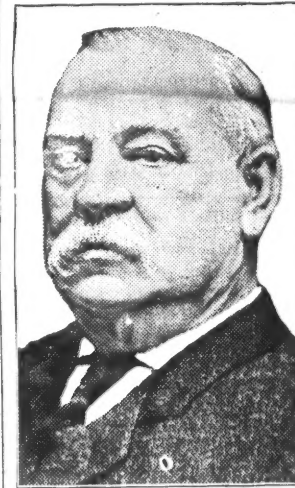

1893—March 4, Grover Cleveland inaugurated a second time, aged fifty-five.
May, a great panic began.
July 1, Cleveland went under surgical operation for cancer.
Oct. 30, The Silver act repealed.
1894—July 4, Cleveland sent troops to Chicago to intervene in railroad strike.
Aug. 27, the Wilson-Gorman tariff became law without president's signature.
1895—Feb. 7, Cleveland made arrangement with J. P. Morgan and others for protection of gold reserve.
Dec. 17, sent in his Venezuelan message.
1908—June 24, Cleveland died at Princeton, N. J., aged seventy-one.

GROVER CLEVELAND had no more than left the presidency in defeat and settled down to the practice of law in New York City than it was seen that he was still almost as much the leader of the Democratic party as when he was in the White House.

In the four years of his retirement, he seldom saw party leaders. Yet so strong was the reaction against the Republicans and so loud the call for him in 1892 that he returned in triumph to the White House.

One of the periodical panics of the 19th century smote the country with a financial and industrial paralysis in 1893, only two months after the inauguration. As usual, the party in power caught the blame, and day after day a leading Republican newspaper shouted in gleeful headlines: "Another bank gone Democratic!"

As the first means of restoring confidence, Cleveland called a special session of congress for the purpose of having it repeal the Silver act of the Harrison administration. The next day he submitted himself to the surgeon's knife for the removal of a cancerous ulcer which had appeared in the roof of his mouth. His grave physical condition was concealed from the panicky mind of the public, and the operation was performed in the closest secrecy aboard a yacht as it steamed slowly up the East River, off New York. Not until many years had passed was it known that when congress assembled he faced it with a rubber jaw.

Under the pressure of the president, the Silver act was repealed, but only after a bitter struggle which left the Democratic party hopelessly split. The passage of a tariff bill divided the party still more. It was such a lobby-made, log-rolling measure that Cleveland refused to sign it, but let it become law without his signature. After that the Democrats went down in defeat in the congressional elections of 1894.

In the depth of our domestic troubles the president sent his famous Venezuelan message to congress. In it he announced that the British government had rejected all our appeals for the arbitration of a land dispute which was pressing in South America, and he boldly proposed that we ourselves should decide the question and then proceed to enforce our decision.

Stocks tumbled headlong in London and New York, and there was much wild talk on both sides of the Atlantic. But the president confidently reassured his troubled private secretary: "Thurber, this does not mean war; it means arbitration." And that was the outcome of all the hubbub. Cleveland's outburst of plain speaking had the effect of awakening the English people, as never before, to the value of American friendship, and it opened a new era in the relations of the two governments.

Cleveland's hardest, longest battle in his second administration was for the gold standard. Almost alone he upheld it through four years, abandoned by most of the Democrats and unaided by the gold Republicans in congress, who were afraid of "hurting the party" with the silver people.

Dance Helps Punched Piano Fund

The Piano Fund has been increased during the past week by several contributions from alumni and friends of Punched, and also by the sum of $70 netted from the dance held by the Alumni Association in Punched Hall last Friday evening. There was a large attendance at the dance, and that interest in the Piano Fund is keen, was shown by the applause which greeted the announcement, during the evening, that $1000 had already been raised.

The committee in charge of the Fund also expressed through Principal Hamblin their sincere gratitude to the members of Buckley's Orchestra, who gave their services for the evening, in order that the receipts to be turned over to the Fund might be as large as possible. Their courtesy and generosity were much appreciated by all present.
The total gross receipts to date in the Fund are slightly in excess of $1100. Expenses amounting to $60, bring the total on hand at present, down to about $1040. This is very gratifying, and means that within a short time, the Alumni Association will be able to place the new piano in Punched Hall. It is proposed to purchase an instrument which will be fitted in style and tone to the requirements of the hall and the school work, and which will be adequate for any occasion which may arise.

The aim of the Association, however, is not only to buy a new piano, but also to provide a much-needed drop-curtain for the stage, and other smaller improvements, and in order to accomplish this, additional contributions will be necessary. Over two-thirds of the amount desired, $1500, has been contributed, and the balance of less than $500.00 should be easily raised within the next few weeks. There are many Punched men and women, as well as boys and girls, living within the limits of the town, whose names should be on the list of contributors. Any amount however small, will be gladly received by the treasurer, or any of the committee.

Names of contributors, in addition to those previously published, are as follows:
Patrick Barrett, services
Mrs. Henry A. Bodwell
Everett Boutwell

Andover 31 — Dean Academy 0

Dean academy was given its worst defeat by Andover in its series of annual games when the Blue smothered the Franklin team 31-0 on Brothers field Saturday afternoon.
The game was played in midsummer weather and it took a whole lot out of the players after the first period during which Andover went after the visitors hammer and tongs and scored 7 points. There was no scoring in the second and third periods but in the fourth Andover got going again and Weinecke twice went over for touchdowns from which goals were kicked.

The visitors never had a chance to score and although they made first down seven times were only once in Andover's territory and never were dangerous. They were a big husky lot with Hussey starring in the backfield ably assisted by Thibodeau, but they were outclassed by Andover's fast team.

Andover was still without Maht and Tillson, both of whom are on the injured list, and Ellis was in poor condition. He played all the game but favored himself particularly on line drives. In spite of this however he played a great game and his capture of a pass in the fourth was a feature of the game. He also scored the second touchdown. Wingate was in the limelight, more ways than one, and started the scoring in the opening period when he dropped a pretty goal from the 30 yard line. Shortly afterwards he received a Dean punt and made 35 yards before being downed. Ellis added 20 more and three plays from Dean's line allowed the Andover captain to score the first touchdown.

Weinecke ran back Dean's kick-off 30 yards and two long runs by Wingate and Ellis, the latter for 40 yards allowed the latter to tally. Wingate kicking the goal.

The second and third periods were fruitless, but in the latter period Dean showed its best offensive behind a good formation and made three first downs in succession through Andover's left side, when Kern and Leo Daley rested. It was only a flash however for Andover braced and took the ball away. Opening the last period Wingate threw a forward to Ellis for a 40-yard gain but on the next play on which Weinecke gained 10 yards Andover was offside, and Dean took the ball. Dean punted from its goal line and Ellis went 30 yards before he was downed on Dean's 18-yard line. Four plays and Weinecke was over. The same player a few minutes later intercepted a Dean forward and raced 40 yards for the last score, Ellis kicking the goal.

Andover's tackling was none too good in spots and too many of Dean's gains resulted from missed tackles.

Andover's ends, Latulippe and Wolfe, were fast down the field on punts and Dean's receivers were unable to move an inch. Veghte at centre played a remarkable game and he was in every play.

Interested spectators in the stand were Mr. and Mrs. Wingate of East Orange, N. J., who saw their son lead his team to the big victory over Dean.

The Woman Voter

Andover closes registration a week from tomorrow night, and there is no question that the number of names which will be on the voting list when the official figures are made up will represent not only practically all of the male population of the town over twenty-one years of age, but nearly all of the female portion.

How the women will vote is disturbing a good many people, but there is considerable evidence from the straw votes that are being taken, and results that have already come from voting in Maine and at primaries all over the country, that the women will vote fully as intelligently as the men. They certainly could not be much less intelligent about it in some ways than men have been in Massachusetts for the last few years. We look to see the women give a great deal of study to the ballot between now and election day, and out of that study prepare themselves to divide the Coxes, the Coolidges, the Jacksons and any of the other complicated names into their various proper classifications of sheep and goats.

It is not unlikely that the summary of it all will be a division very much in the same way that the men divide: mothers, wives, sweethearts and daughters as a rule being in sympathy with their various male associates. This does not for a minute suggest that the women are going to be blindly led in approving candidacies or measures. They never have been in other matters, and there is no reason to expect them to be in connection with politics. Long known as the weaker sex, there has been abundant evidence that the only justification for this charge was the willingness of the male members to be considered the stronger sex. When it came to a necessity for asserting positions on any important question, most of the women have been able to take a stand and to maintain it.

Many of them have been waiting a long time for the right to vote. It is interesting to note that in many cases those who have waited the longest and sought it with the most diligence are now really among those least interested in exercising the right. This is very much a woman's way of proceeding, frequently wanting what she has not, and not being very happy when she gets it. On the other hand, many of the women who have been interested in securing the franchise now look upon the privilege as a sacred duty and are among the most enthusiastic of those working for political principles and endorsing political parties.

Of course it is going to be interesting to finally analyze the woman's vote, but it is going to be mighty difficult to have any information accurate under the system that prevails in casting the vote. The most important thing now is to see that she, with all the men, gets to the polls and actually votes in the coming election. That government is strongest where the greatest percentage of the people have an interest in it, and certainly we are going to have a rousing big vote whatever the result may be.

The Election Prospect

The various political dopesters are covering all sections of the country with straw votes, and with analyses of political conditions tending to show the drift in the presidential campaign. A summary of these reports indicates an enormous majority for Harding and Coolidge in the east and middle west, a strong drift that way in the far west, and a continued "solid south" for the Democratic party in the south. The Republican party leaders always seem to be interested in breaking the solid south whenever there is a widespread slant toward Republican candidates. Undoubtedly they are justified in continuing the hammering upon the doubtful elements that make up the people of the south, particularly on the border states. These men are certainly becoming more and more imbued with Republican principles, particularly the high-tariff state of mind. Their industries have prospered more generously under the kind of government that the Republican party usually provides, as have all industries all over the country, and the southerner knows the story just as well as the northerner does, but they have that insurmountable obstacle in what they believe to be the necessity of controlling the colored vote that places them in direct opposition to what they believe that vote to be on every occasion.

We have considerable discussion of the various amendments to the Constitution, and the manner in which they are enforced, but until the Thirteenth Amendment has been given a new meaning to the average southerner there would seem to be to those of us who view the situation from the height of the north, very little likelihood of shifting southern Democracy to the attitude of northern Republicanism.

Editorial Cinders

The New England coal situation is improving, but is still far from pleasing to many people. One distinct relief to the situation is undoubtedly to be found in the fact that more small supplies are in the bins of the people who use only a few tons each year, than is usually the case. With a fairly open winter there is little doubt but that most people will have all the coal they need, but considerable patience and a goodly sum of money per ton will have to be expended to bring about that result. It is pretty tough on many people to pay the price that is being asked for coal in the bin in every section of the country, with New England suffering perhaps more than any other region, but isn't it likely that the price is fixed for quite a while, under the control of the situation that is exercised by the mine operators in company with the mine workers? Certainly this is the way it looks if one may judge from reading reports from all over the country.

It is unfortunate that there is not money available for such emergency conditions as are now to be seen on Andover hill in connection with the disposal of the material being taken out of the highway. Much of this material is hardly more than loam, totally unfit for highway, but splendidly fitted for grading the area at the junction of Highland road and Main street. No more effective improvement anywhere in the town could be made than to place this material there and properly lay out the road and adjacent territory at the new grade. Never again will the town get this material without cost. We earnestly urge the Selectmen and the Board of Public Works to strain every point to make use of it, even if nothing more is done than to dump it until the next town meeting can make plans to take care of it.

It looks as if Phillips Academy had another smashing football team with prospects of getting into the Exeter game for a second victory. This is good, and it is particularly good for the big bunch of boys that are playing the game every afternoon to have a part in the healthful play. This has been one of the great factors of Phillips athletics for some years, and there is evidence that it is beginning to count in the big team that is finally selected. There were a good many years of famine so far as victories were concerned, but the feast is now beginning to manifest itself.

Register Tonight

There are but two more opportunities for registration at the Town House: this evening between the hours of seven and ten and Saturday, October 23rd, from noon until ten o'clock in the evening.

The Board of Registrars will also be in session at the Old Schoolhouse in Ballardvale on Monday evening, October 18th from seven until ten.

A. V. I. S. Takes Action on Tree Question

The mutilation of the trees in West Andover has caused great indignation among lovers of beautiful trees. The matter was taken up at the meeting of the trustees of the Andover Village Improvement Society last Monday evening and the following letter has been sent to Tree Warden Edward H. Berry:

October 12, 1920
Mr. Edward H. Berry,
Tree Warden,
Dear Sir:

At a meeting of the trustees of the Andover Village Improvement Society, Monday evening, October 11, 1920, the following vote was passed:
Voted: that it is the sentiment of the trustees of the A. V. I. S. that the Tree Warden should be asked to prosecute the man guilty of the acts of vandalism in West Andover, and if there is any way to punish the guilty party, to do so.

A copy of this letter will be sent to the Andover Townsman.

For the trustees,
EMMA J. LINCOLN,
Clerk

Free Church Missionary Meeting

Friday afternoon, October 8th, at the home of Mrs. F. A. Wilson, the Foreign Missionary Department of the Free church held its opening meeting for the season of 1920-21. Plans for the year's work, presented by the president, Mrs. Wilson, met with united acceptance. The study text-book, "The Bible and Missions," by Helen B. Montgomery, is published by the Central Committee on United Study of Foreign Missions, and is to be adopted by the Missionary Circles of the Congregational churches in general. Topics of current interest in the mission field are to supplement the study of this book, and special music is to be a feature of the meetings, also afternoon tea at the close. The annual Thank-offering was generous, enabling the department to meet promptly its apportionment to the Woman's Board of Missions.

The attendance was large and enthusiastic. Five new members joined the Department.

During the past two or three years the Missionary Department has been quietly, but steadily, gaining in numbers and interest. There is room, and a welcome, for all Free church ladies not yet in the roll-call.

Pastor Presented with Purse of Gold

At the close of the weekly prayer meeting held at the South church on Wednesday evening, Rev. and Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow were presented with a purse of more than one hundred dollars in gold, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

The unusually large gathering, which numbered more than one hundred and fifty, gave the pastor and his wife a premonition that their anniversary was to be remembered, but when Judge Bell in behalf of the parishoners gave into Mrs. Bigelow's hands the beautiful beaded bag containing the coins she was deeply affected.

Judge Bell offered the gift as a token of the respect and affection in which the pastor and his wife are held and with the wish that many years of happiness and usefulness may yet be their lot.

Mrs. Bigelow expressed her appreciation of the generous thoughtfulness of her friends as well as for their many kindnesses to herself and her family since she came among them, hoping to be spared for many years of increased usefulness in the work of the church.

Mr. Bigelow also voiced his gratitude for the gift and for the kindly affection and friendship which had prompted it.

At the reception which followed Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. F. Homer Foster, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Cheney and Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin, all of whom have rounded out twenty-five years of married life.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the committee in charge.

Tells of Americanization Work in Lawrence

Miss Margaret Van Meter, one of the social workers at the Lawrence Young Women's Christian association spoke at the Baptist church on Monday evening. She came as a guest of the Farther Lights society and her talk of the work among the foreigners of Lawrence was especially interesting. She described the classes the association has among the people who came from foreign shores to be Americanized and the quickness with which many of our customs are imitated and assimilated by these future citizens.

Refreshments were served by members of the society.

Rally at Shawshen Hall

About 200 voters were present at a Republican Rally in Shawshen hall last night and all the speakers were greeted with enthusiasm and appreciation. Col. F. S. Evans was the presiding officer and during his preliminary remarks had much of interest and enlightenment to give to the audience.

The first speaker was State Senator Franklin Butler of Lawrence who touched on various subjects that come before the upper branch of the Massachusetts legislature.

Congressman John Jacob Rogers was greeted with the usual friendliness of an Andover audience and he spoke very feelingly of the situation which confronts the voters in their choice of Presidential candidates. He dwelt for some length on the extravagances of the present administration, telling of some exceptionally interesting incidents.

Dr. Charles E. Abbott, the local candidate for Representative was the third speaker and gave a very interesting story of the people of that section during the Civil War. He also told of the work in the Legislature which might be expected of him especially along lines dealing with the public health. This, he said, was one of the vital problems of today and much more could be done along this line.

John F. Hurley of Boston, a prominent lawyer and a lecturer in educational institutions, gave a very forceful and interesting talk on the League of Nations. He maintained that the agreement as proposed by President Wilson was like a leaky ship, full of holes and headed for ultimate destruction.

Although it contained some good points there were so many bad ones that it was unsafe for this country to adopt it in its present form.

Notice

The annual meeting of the corporation of the Andover Home for Aged People, for the election of officers for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before it will be held on Tuesday evening, October 19, 1920 at 7:15 at The Home, 1 Pumphard Ave.

Climbs Flag Pole

Peter L. Walgrun, the original steeple-jack attracted quite an audience on the Phillips Academy campus Monday afternoon when he climbed the Academy flagpole to replace the rope which had become unfastened. The ascent was made by a clever manipulation of ropes and slings in very fast time and the boys cheered the climber when he reached the top.

Mr. Walgrun, who is seventy-one, years old has a number of climbing feats to his credit, among them being work on the tops of the World and Singer buildings in New York and the Ames building in Boston.

One Pipe—The Modern way to Heat

THE MAGGE ONE-PIPE FURNACE is the new principle in heating to which the householder may confidently look for the realization of what he has always hoped for in his heater—"hoped for" but never "realized."

To-day this realization is made possible by the unique features presented in the Magge system. Through its single warm-air pipe, the Magge sends all of the warm air which is generated, upstairs into the house where it is needed. Coal bills do not look so large when you realize that all of the coal heat which you pay for is utilized; no part of it is wasted. Think it over and

Ray L. Dearborn passed away at his home on Elm street on Wednesday afternoon after a week's illness.

Mr. Dearborn was born in Andover on January 7, 1889 and attended the public schools, graduating from the Pynchard High school with the Class of 1907.

He attended the Salem Commercial School after which he was employed for seven years as a stenographer by the Stimpson Concrete Company of Boston. For several years he worked for the State Department of Fisheries at Sandwich, Mass.

On Thursday of last week he was taken ill with infantile paralysis while in the discharge of his duties as caretaker at Memorial Hall Library, the end coming less than one week later.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lauren F. Dearborn and a sister Marion L., both of Andover, and a brother, Roy of North Andover.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon on the lawn of his late residence, and committal services were read at the grave by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow of the South church.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Thomas W. Platt, Jr., who died October 14, 1918:

The fairest of flowers are first to fall.
Two years have passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away;
His loving smile, his welcome face
No one can fill his vacant place.
Hold him O Father, in thine arms
And let him ever be
A messenger of love between
Our aching hearts and Thee.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS PLATT AND FAMILY.

Smith and Dove A. A. opened its social season Friday night with a smoker and entertainment in the clubhouse in Abbott Village which was a big success and promises well for a lively winter.

There was a splendid attendance of members of the association and the program included vocal selections and dancing exhibitions, and also boxing bouts by club members.

Songs were rendered by Kirk Auchterlonie, Alexander Auchterlonie, Robert Gargill, Frank Murphy and Charles Penniman. The latter also gave an exhibition of dancing which was greatly enjoyed.

Charles Murphy, an old favorite at the club, who has just returned from a visit to the sunny South, gave a wonderful exhibition of southern dancing. He had evidently picked up a few new steps during his stay, and was encored several times. John Walker presided at the piano.

Others who took part in the program were Walter Murphy, Ralph Murphy, Bernice Brown, F. Rogers, Barney Burke, John Hughes, John Darby, John McGrishin, Russell Mack, James Welch, Leo Boucher, Jack Mansfield, David McFarlane.

"T. D." pipes, tobacco and "Humps" were provided and refreshments of coffee and doughnuts furnished by Miss Johnson of the Hillside were served during the evening.

Marshall Walker was announced as the winner of a toilet set.

The smoker was a very auspicious opening of the winter activities and a successful season is assured.

Farewell to Christ Church Organist

The two choirs of Christ Church sang at the morning service on Sunday, when the organist and choirmaster, Blanchard Ralph, played for the last time before leaving to begin his new work in California. It was a large congregation and the excellent singing of the forty-two voices roused their appreciation. The work of the soloists, among whom were Edward Holt, Alfred Robb, Jack Hill and James Schofield, was well done, especially satisfying being the duet in the Te Deum sung by Messrs. Hill and Holt. The few words of appreciation of Mr. Ralph, spoken by the rector, were truly deserved, for the morale of the choir has never been higher. Many people showed their regard for him by waiting to speak with him after the service. The church will miss his kindly, efficient leadership in the choir.

Old Shop vs. New Shop

Monday afternoon on the Smith and Dove field a close and exciting soccer game—for the players—was played by teams representing the old and new departments of the Tyer Rubber Company plants. The old "Shop" won four goals to two.

Despite the pre-contest claims of the New factory men, in whose ranks were veterans "Paddy" Coleman, "Pete" Cairnie, and Peter Doherty of Abbot Worsted fame, and with Jack Munro of the Smith and Dove A. A. in goal, the old factory showed the way all through the game.

It was a case of youth being served and the young bloods of the winning team with the aid of the experience of "Bill" Gordon, "Rocky" Ross, the real internationalist who played rings around "Viv" Woodward's all-English team in Boston a number of years ago, and the redoubtable and only elder in goal, the new factory were almost on the defensive.

"Geordie" Fyfe was the hardest working player on the field and his skillful placing resulted in several goals. "Alf" Robb, "Ed" Emslie and Jimmie Skea showed flashes of real football and the better team won. "Jim" Bencie was a tower of strength in the back-field for the losers, but for most of the hour's football was all they wanted and several declared it was their last appearance on any field, positively.

John Hutton was a most impartial referee, although it is alleged that he was "seen" before the game by the Old factory men.

The teams were:
Old factory—J. Elder, g., W. A. R. Gordon, r.b., J. Skea, l.b., A. Robb, r.h.b., E. Emslie, c.h.b., J. Henderson, l.h.b., forwards: H. Cairnie, G. Fyfe,

Dr. William Shaw delivered an address on "What is the Matter with the World" at the Men's Club of All Souls church, Braintree, on Wednesday evening, October 13th.

Harvest Supper

The annual Harvest Supper of the Congregational church was held in the vestry on Tuesday evening.

There were plates set for 150 persons and a bountiful supper was enjoyed. The menu was as follows: beans and brown bread, rolls, cold meat, potato salad, pickles, celery, doughnuts, pies and coffee.

The committee who served were Mrs. Ada Wamaker, chairman; Mrs. William Shaw, Mrs. William Clemmons, Mrs. Joseph Stott, Mrs. Ralph Bruce, assisted by Mrs. Clester Matthews, J. E. Stott, George Shaw and Eldon Fleury.

The vestry was prettily decorated with autumn leaves and flowers and a fine display of vegetables was on exhibition.

After the feast was over the vegetables were sold at auction and netted quite a sum for the cause.

It was one of the most successful suppers ever served by the church.

Christmas Seal Campaign

Owing to the confusion in the public mind, and, to a certain extent in the minds of Red Cross workers throughout the country, over the exact relationship of the American Red Cross to the National Tuberculosis Association in the latter's sale of Christmas Seals, it is important for the purposes of the Fourth Roll Call that a distinct understanding on this point should obtain, well in advance of either our Roll Call or the Christmas Seal Campaign.

When the subject was up for discussion last year, it was decided that it would be to the advantage of both organizations if the National Tuberculosis Association were permitted to carry on their sale of Red Cross Christmas seals as theretofore. It was further decided, however, that this year, 1920, the National Tuberculosis Association should not be permitted to use the American Red Cross emblem or title. This decision was arrived at not through any lack of interest of the American Red Cross in the work of the National Tuberculosis Association, but because of the confusion in the public mind which seemed inevitable so long as the old arrangement prevailed.

For the purposes of the Fourth Roll Call and the Christmas Seal Stamp sale, therefore, the relationship of the two organizations shall be as follows:

1. There is no official connection between the campaign of the National Tuberculosis Association and the American Red Cross.

2. There is to be no use of the Red Cross Emblem by the National Tuberculosis Association.

3. The title "American Red Cross" is not to be used on the tuberculosis seal or stamp.

The above is not to be construed as meaning that the American Red Cross is not vitally interested in the success of the National Tuberculosis Association. On the contrary, the work of the National Tuberculosis Association has been and is of inestimable value; and the American Red Cross thoroughly approves its campaign and sincerely hopes for its success. Therefore, if Red Cross Chapter members, as individuals, wish to take part in the Tuberculosis campaign, the Red Cross will heartily approve of their doing so.

Airplanes in Mining Operations.

It is predicted that the airplane and the dirigible will prove a great stimulus to the mining industry in presenting a means of getting material and men to and from locations which are known to be rich with ore and which are at the present time inaccessible. There are many such places known to exist, but the cost of building a roadway to them would be so great as to be prohibitive. Attention to this phase of the subject has been recently attracted by a report made by Doctor Lyon, supervisor of the mining stations for the United States bureau of mines. By this means a regular communication could be maintained with sections which are not to be reached by any ordinary means. It is also suggested that the same means might be of great value for getting rescue apparatus to the scene of mining disasters.

The House of The Seven Gables, Salem, Mass., made famous by Hawthorne's book of the same name. It was built in 1662.

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

MOTORISTS, commercial truckmen and farmers—from Salem, Mass., to Oswego, N. Y.—have come to depend upon Socony products. Thus, ordinary demand has become a responsibility which the Standard Oil Company of New York is constantly striving to fulfil. This is the reason for the steady growth of Socony service.

Refining processes, like motor construction methods, are always being improved. Socony gasoline is made and tested in accordance with the most recent standards of accuracy—insuring uniform cleanness, constant mileage to every gallon and absolute dependability. There is a difference in gasoline—just as there is in coal. It will pay you to discriminate.

Socony is a straight-refinery gasoline. It vaporizes quickly, but it is more than a mere easy-starting fuel. Owners of large motor truck fleets use Socony regularly because it is uniformly high-powered and clean-burning.

LADIES NIGHT HELD

meeting in the parish house. Rev. Arthur S. Weelock was elected a member of the club, after which Mr. Chandler called upon Deacon Sutherland to read the resolutions passed on the death of the Rev. Clark Carter. It was voted to spread the resolutions upon the records and to send a copy to the members of Mr. Carter's family.

In introducing Rev. Charles P. McGregor of the Second Baptist church of Lawrence who spoke on woman's suffrage, Mr. Chandler said that while no question had been effectually and finally settled by the ballot, nor had he any hope that the millennium would be brought about by that means, yet he hoped for a general improvement in condition which would be hastened by woman's participation in voting. He welcomed them to the ranks of voters with the words, "If you can do a better job than men, God bless you."

Mr. McGregor who has been an earnest advocate of woman's suffrage spoke up as follows:

"The way in which a nation treats its women is the measure of its civilization. America's progress may be gauged by the growing deference paid by men to women. When our Republic began its career women were held in the background and only a very small percentage were furnished with an education. As late as 1788 the town of Northampton voted 'not to be at any expense for schooling girls.'

"In 1792 Newburyport voted to permit 'use of schools by girls during the summer season, when the boys in the school have diminished, for instruction in reading and grammar after the dismissal of the boys for an hour and a half.' Another Massachusetts town voted about the same time to admit girls from six to eight in the morning. Today America proudly boasts that her womanhood takes rank with her manhood in education, culture and refinement. The trail leading to woman's suffrage has been a long and hard one. Back somewhere near 1845 a little girl in New York state watched her mother weep, soon after the death of her father because all the property descended by law to the oldest son. That child visited a judge who read her the law showing legal sanction for the son's inheriting all, whereas, his mother, the widow, had only right to bed and board. She resolved even as a child to do what she could to change this obnoxious law. The girl's name was Elizabeth Cady Stanton. In our own state the battle was waged for years in the endeavor to secure a law giving the mother equal control over her own children. One day a husband came home to his tubercular wife to announce that he had decided to put the children in an orphanage. The wife consulted a lawyer and found that she was absolutely helpless. That woman resolved no child of hers should ever go to an orphanage and before the light of another day dawned these children were lying dead. This aroused public sentiment, and in a short time the law was changed.

"Not only in control of property and children have women found themselves the victims of unjust laws, but also in business and in industry.

"They have told us that a fundamental American doctrine is that taxation without representation is tyranny. Directly or indirectly every American woman has been paying taxes, therefore every American woman should have had the right to vote.

"Moreover, if government in a democracy is the expression of the popular will, then with more than one-half of our population without the power of expressing that will, our democracy has been only one-half a reality.

"Then women were forced to obey laws which they had no voice in making or changing. More women are graduates of High schools than men, and so it is safe to say that women being on the whole more intelligent than the men of America, they have felt this lack of law-making power to have been a gross injustice.

"Moreover it is commonly recognized that women are more humane than men. Greatly has America needed the benefit of their warm hearts and keen insights in fashioning laws for the protection of women and children.

"Much fear has been expressed lest the criminal woman's vote should have much weight in legislation. It should be remembered that women compose only five and one-half per cent of the criminal class. There are then, fifteen bad men for every bad woman. Indeed the revelations of recent years have shown that bad men are the exploiters and slave holders of the great majority of bad women.

"Everywhere that women have voted they have accomplished much good. Being housekeepers, they have insisted that government should partake of the nature of housekeeping. Naturally given to caring for details they have demanded greater care with less waste in the different departments of government housekeeping. Ever anxious concerning the care of children, and the weak, women have brought about great reforms in Colorado, California and every state where they have had an opportunity.

"Needless to say not only in the nation, but also in the separate states, there are many reforms yet to be instituted. It is interesting to recall how steadily vice and liquor interests have fought against the enfranchisement of women. The reason was plain to all who were not blinded by prejudice. Women, it was known, would insist on better laws for women and children, would demand better industrial conditions for girls, would work incessantly for the complete annihilation of every vestige of that powerful influence exerted by the liquor interests, and would seek to protect her sex from conditions that naturally tend to vice.

"Women now have the vote; they must use it wisely and intelligently. It has not been good for man to have had the burden of government to bear alone. He is now to have the help of his divinely preferred partner. Women will not bring in the millennium, but they co-operating with their brothers will make this world brighter, better and more humane."

Mrs. Mank of the United Congregational Church of Lawrence, in a succinct but entertaining paper gave the viewpoint of one who formerly opposed woman's suffrage, was now ready to assume its duties and its privileges.

"In the first place I will state that I have never been one of the women who desired to vote. For many years I sincerely hoped that suffrage would not be granted to women, though in these later years I have increasingly realized that it was inevitable sooner or later. But I did not yearn for new responsibilities and was inclined to agree with the old lady who said in regard to voting that 'if there was one thing that the men could do alone for pity's sake let them do it.' Nevertheless I was a registered voter before the Nineteenth Amendment was adopted, because since the state of Massachusetts gave the responsibility for its school boards to women as well as men, it seemed a shirking of that responsibility not to vote when those school boards were elected. For the same reason I voted at the state primaries and intend to vote at all elections when it is possible to do so. I think that my own attitude is that of most earnest and thoughtful women who were not suffragists before the amendment was adopted. I know a quiet, retiring old lady of nearly eighty years whose interests have always been strictly domestic, who conquered her fear of automobiles and dread of riding behind a horse and was driven four miles in a pouring rain to vote at the Maine election. Many women ardently desired the ballot and many more will gravely and earnestly strive to use it worthily since the burden has been laid upon them. They will make many mistakes and be often deceived no doubt, but when we see the corruption and inefficiency which pervades our political life it looks as if the male voters had made some mistakes and had sometimes been misled. We women do not know very definitely many things about public affairs and about candidates for office but when we ask our men friends for information we are usually surprised to learn that generally they do not know very definitely either. It is not at all probable that we shall find the millennium immediately at hand because women are going to vote, neither is it likely that our political fabric will be reduced to chaos. The talk of a woman's party is simply absurd. The women voters will differ upon questions of public policy as the men do and they will vote with the party which most nearly represents their ideas. I think it almost certain that in affairs nearest at hand women will take more interest in details than men do, and in the personality of the candidate. That is in accordance with the psychological tendencies of the two sexes. For a while at least the newly enfranchised voters will be likely to take their responsibilities more seriously than their men folks do, but they will not see things very differently from the way in which their fathers, brothers and husbands see them, since they are surrounded by the same influences and inherit the same tendencies. Moral worth and moral questions generally will be likely to loom somewhat larger in the eyes of the feminine portion of the politician constituency; and the silly and frivolous girl will be no more unwise in her judgment and vote than the empty-headed and ignorant youth with whom she associates.

"Just before the amendment was adopted, I heard an iceman at Marblehead say that any woman who went to the polls to vote for President ought to drop dead and he hoped she would. Now I am quite sure there was not a woman in the house he was supplying with ice (opinions and sentiments thrown in) who was not immensely his superior in intelligence, general information, moral judgment and political sense. It is possible that our friend the iceman would be quite as likely to be swayed by his unreasoning prejudices when he came to vote as even the feminine mind. Quite a few men I know of in Maine would not vote in the September election because they did not approve of woman suffrage. Probably this action was based upon what seemed to them sound reasoning, but it certainly seems as if the women of the state did not have any monopoly of illogical minds.

"For my own part, I doubt if we see any marked or sudden change in political affairs. Women are naturally conservative and will not in any large numbers, seek any violent or convulsive break with the past, but I look for a gradual and increasing permeation of public life by womanly ideas and influence. The individuals who are fit and able will come forward into prominence whether they be men or women and the incident of sex will not debar anyone from doing what she is able to do. In time the woman who does the same work as well as a man does it, will get the same pay for doing it, whether the reward be money or position or fame or power, and it seems to me that this can be no less than justice in the eyes of Him who is the 'God of things as they are.'

Solos by Mrs. Harry A. Wright of the West Church and Thomas Parkinson of the Free Church and a violin solo by Mrs. Joseph N. Ashton completed the evening's program. Mrs. John C. Angus was accompanist.

Soccer

In the first round of the State Cup Competition the Smith and Dove soccer team was unfortunate to lose to the Lynn Gas and Electric Company team by two goals to one. The mill team with its supporters made the trip in two motor trucks and arrived on the grounds one hour before the game started. The day was a perfect one for the game, but there were few spectators and it is little wonder, for the style of play exhibited by the Lynn Gas team would not attract lovers of clean sport. Almost from the start they played the one-back game and never lost a chance to rough the Andover men. They pushed and fouled and were allowed to get away with most of it by referee Hulse.

Smith and Dove won the toss and placed their backs to the south for the sunshine was very bright. Lynn kicked off and with a rush were in front of the Andover goal. Munroe was called on to pick up and from his clearance his side got away. The left wing took the ball up and Moffat shot, the keeper just managing to reach the ball with his foot and it rolled for a corner. Killacky placed nicely over the goal mouth and before it was cleared Brown shot past Free for the opener.

Andover continued for some time to show clever football but they could not get goals and play was soon changing from end to end. Munroe met with a bad accident near the end of the half when, after Andover had been pressing, the ball was shot far down towards their goal. Low missed and Pidgeon was off with no one to stop him. Just as the centerforward shot, Munro, who had been running out, threw himself on the ball and was knocked off by the impact of ball and foot. He was in bad shape but stuck to his post and the interval gave him a chance to recover.

In the early part of the second half the Lynn team had the best of matters and scored first one goal and then took the lead with another. This brought Smith and Dove to life and from this time the mill boys outplayed the City team. Time after time they had the ball within scoring distance but could not get the much-needed goal. Killacky was the outstanding player at this stage, his beating of the backs and speed in reaching the ball in the goal area being a treat to watch.

This week the Smith and Dove team will play the first round of the National Cup at Springfield. The team will leave in the morning.

Lynn Gas: Free, T. Cosgrove and Flannery; F. Cosgrove, McLaren and McQuade; Hogan, McCall, Pidgeon, Fletcher and Gordon.

Smith and Dove: Munroe, Low and Cargill, Coleman, Haddon and Nicoll; Killacky, Todd, Deyermund, Brown and Moffat.

7 Washington Ave. - - Andover
Please drop us a card.

This is the year when it is the duty of the Town Fathers to "perambulate the bounds" and Selectmen Donald, McTernan and Bowman have made a start on this interesting task which is performed every five years.

Andover is bounded by five towns (North Reading, Tewksbury, Lawrence, North Andover and Middleton) and Andover's Town Fathers arrange a date with those of the adjoining town and together they go over the boundary lines, laying their hands, as the law requires, on the boundary stones.

In former years some of the Selectmen in their zeal for absolute accuracy literally perambulated the entire line between Lawrence and Andover, a course which carried them over stone walls, through woods and underbrush and required an equipment of rubber boots for all concerned. It has now been found that a near approach to the most elusive bound may be made by automobile over a fairly good road from which it may be reached almost dryshod.

The lines between Andover and Tewksbury and Andover and North Reading have already been perambulated and those of North Andover, Lawrence and Middleton are still to be visited.

What a wonderful thing it would be if all owners of land were obliged to go through this simple ceremony once in each five years, thus keeping definitely in mind the accurate boundaries of their property which have been mutually agreed upon by themselves and their abutters!

The Townsman

Two Andover Heroines

In a recent pamphlet entitled "Lone Sentinels in the Near East," four American women have been selected to illustrate extraordinary bravery and achievement in dangerous and isolated posts during the last few years of turmoil in the East. Of these four, Andover may feel highly honored to have some claim on two—Miss Mary L. Graffam and Mrs. Olive Twitchell Crawford.

The last and perhaps most dramatic sketch in the pamphlet describes the almost incredible experiences of Mary Graffam, who, as a girl in Andover, made many warm friends because of the very traits that appear in the account of the mature woman. Her schoolmates will not be surprised to read of her practical common sense, her quick-witted ingenuity, her capable handling of difficult situations, her fearlessness. Her amazing ability in acquiring languages, which was of such great advantage to her and those dependent upon her, will remind them at once of her clever translations in Latin class, and also of her readiness to help less gifted ones.

Without thought of commendation or praise, she stood alone in the great city of Sivas, representing Christian America, — and the Turks were afraid of her. Many times she willingly took her life in her hands for the sake of the poor people whom she was there to serve.

Mrs. Crawford also received part of her education in Andover, — at Abbot Academy — and by her long visits with her sisters, Mrs. Hall and Miss Julia Twitchell, and her son, Mr. Douglas Crawford, may well look upon Andover as her home. As she now again takes up her valiant service so far away, Andover people will be proud to have even a part ownership in her life.

Those who, during the past year, heard her restrained recital of the tragic experiences through which she has passed, and her earnest plea for the Armenians, can imagine what her calm, brave assurance must have meant to the frightened, hopeless people who fled to the protection and safety of the mission compound. Through bombardments, both Russian and Turkish, and successive military regimes, through difficulties and dangers and heart-rending scenes, she and her husband worked wisely, lovingly, ceaselessly, to save lives, and to give courage and comfort to those in despair.

After his death from illness due to overstrain and care, she also was left alone in a foreign city, burdened by responsibilities, not only of the mission station, but of government affairs which had been left to Mr. Crawford, as consuls and officials, one by one had left the city. Then indeed she exemplified the power of Christianity in the soul, for she was able to say: "Fear has gone."

In view of the probable demand for this pamphlet by the many friends in town of Miss Graffam and Mrs. Crawford, copies have been obtained and are on sale at twenty cents each, by Miss Jane B. Carpenter, Miss Florence Abbott and Mrs. Frederick H. Ladd.

Impressions from New Haven

On his recent visit to New Haven Rev. E. V. Bigelow reports visiting the new Harkness Memorial building. This famous new dormitory for the Yale students is still in course of construction and will cost over ten million dollars before it is completed. A part of it however has been finished and is occupied by some of the seniors. It is a wonderful modern adaptation of a Gothic cloister, teeming with memorial features and symbolic embellishments. It is a pity that so fine an architectural achievement should be crowded between the narrow streets of New Haven instead of being set like a gem in some open landscape.

A very interesting event of last Monday was a lecture in Lamson Lyceum by Sir William Ramsay, Professor of Humanities in the University of Aberdeen, who for forty years has been exploring Asia Minor in search of Archeological monuments for the purpose of supplementing the data of history in the early centuries of the Christian Era. Professor Benjamin Bacon, the Brother of Mrs. Philip Ripley of our town, has been instrumental in securing Professor Ramsay's visit to America and it is reported that Yale men may continue Sir William Ramsay's remarkable work.

will commence a series of talks on "Heroes of the Bible," taking for his first subject, "Abraham, a man who ventured for God." The purpose of these talks will be to picture the ancient Bible heroes as virile, red-blooded men with a message for the modern world. Each meeting will begin with fifteen minutes of Congressional singing. All are free.

Fifth Cousin Roosevelt devoted his speech at Providence, R. I., to a defense of eight years of Democratic administration. Six weeks is a very short time for doing much along that line.
